MAN KIDNAPED AND LIBERATED NEAR MARION

Columbus Theater Operator Tells of Forced Ride to Point North of Here.

THROWN FROM MACHINE

Gives Account of Being Hurled on Highway After Attack with Blackjack.

J. Real Neth, owner of three Columbus theaters, was kidnaped early this morning, driven to several miles north of Marion and thrown out of an automobile, he told Columbus authorities today.

Neth told Columbus officers he walked into Marion where he hired a taxi to return to Columbus. William Rhoads, a night driver for the Yellow Taxi Co. here, drove a man to Columbus last night, Rhoads' employers said today.

Rhoads said no word passed between himself and his passenger during the trip. The man walked into the taxi office about 6.30 a. m. today to engage the taxi for Columbus. He was taken to the Neil House garage.

Local Police Not Notified

Police and attaches in the office of Sheriff C. C. Fye today said they had received no word of the kidnaping, nor of Neth's story of being thrown from the auto.

Two racketeers said by police to be either from Toledo or Detroit were sought by autuhorities today in connection with the kidnaping. The kidnapers forced Neth into their automobile at the rear of his home early this morning and compelled him to remain quiet under a threat of death. He said they beat him with a blackjack before throwing him from the car.

Authorities attributed the kidnaping to Neth's refusal to employ union operators in his Columbus theaters.

VILLAGE HAS ONE DEATH, NO BIRTHS

KENTON, June 9—Harry A. Smith, recorder of vital statistics for the village of Ridgeway, refuses to accept any responsibility for the lack of births and the single death in Ridgeway this year.

Recently Smith, who also is village clerk, received a reprimand from the state department of vital statistics for his failure in reporting births and deaths.

"We have learned" the letter read, "that you have reported no births and only one death to the Hardin county health commissioner this year."

Smith chuckled as he penned a note to the health department refusing to accept any responsibility in the matter. The fact was that there had been no births and only one death in the village at the time.

DEDICATION PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Executive Committee Will Meet Tonight; Official Band Named.

Detailed plans for the dedication of Harding memorial next Tuesday will be given a final check by the executive committee of the Harding Memorial association in the offices of its chairman, Hoke Donithen, tonight at 7:30.

The committee may hold another meeting later this week for final preparations for the dedication and the entertainment of President Hoover and many other distinguished guests.

Harvey S. Firestone, personal friend of President Harding, will be unable to attend the dedication, he said in a letter to Hoke Donithen today. Expressing regret at his inability to be in Marion next Tuesday, Mr. Firestone explained that his son Leonard graduates from Princeton June 16.

A 30-piece regimental band from Fort Hayes at Columbus will be the official band of the day. It will play "Hail to the Chief" as the President walks from his car to the speakers' platform, and will be located immediately in front of the platform during the program.

MINE STRIKE RANKS GROW

More Than 800 in Jefferson County Idle as Result of Walkout.

SEEK WAGE INCREASE

Committee To Meet Operators Named After Meeting and Parade.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 9—More than 800 miners in five Jefferson county coal mines were idle today in a walkout called by the National Miners union in an attempt to obtain increased wage schedules in Jefferson, Belmont and Harrison county districts.

A special committee of 25 miners selected to confer with Robert Ireland, general manager of the M. A. Hanna company, operators of three of the mines, was not met by the mine officials. R. D. Clay, manager of operations for the Hanna company, however, issued a statement saying they would refuse to recognize the union.

Mass Meeting Held

The committee was selected at a mass meeting in the Dillonvale last night which was addressed by Robert Sivart, organizer for the National Miners union. Preceding the meeting a parade through the village was held in which placards saying "Down with John L. Lewis" and "Don't be a scab" were freely exhibited.

Sheriff W. J. Yost and four deputies went to the Piney Fork district but moved to Dillonvale when 200 miners started picketing the Hanna properties there.

Sivart said he had completed plans for a mass meeting of miners of the three counties at Bellaire next Sunday at which he would call for a walkout throughout the district unless the operators meet their demands.

The miners demanded the right to select a mine committee, an eight hour day, abolition of the "average system," reinstatement of union miners, and abolition of what they termed starvation wages.

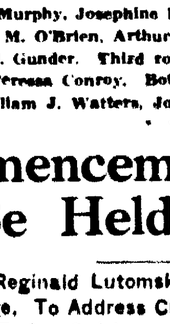
"Flaming Clara" Released from Film Contract

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 9—The career of Clara Bow as a motion picture star was ended today, temporarily at least.

Paramount studios officials announced last night they had granted her request for a release from her contract extending to next October and calling for two more pictures.



Clara Bow

Whether the girl who gave a new meaning to the word "it" will ever be seen again in the films remained problematical. An exchange of amenities accompanied the termination of her six-year association with Paramount — an association punctuated with numerous tempestuous events which culminated recently in a nervous breakdown which was given as the real reason for the severance of relations.

In a letter notifying her that the contract had been "torn up" to aid her recovery of health, B. P. Schulberg, general manager for Paramount, said, "I know your career on the screen is not at an end and that you will go on from this point to greater triumphs."

Miss Bow, expressing appreciation for the friendly spirit marking the dissolution of the contract, said she had no plans for her future.

House Finance Committee Turns Deaf Ear to Protests of Workers.

REDUCED 10 PER CENT

Chairman Adjourns Session as Arguments Grow a Bit Warm.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 9—The finance committee of the house of representatives was standing pat today on its decision to make a horizontal reduction of 10 per cent in the salaries of all state employes except those fixed by statute, despite a stormy protest from the employes.

Scores of them crowded into the committee room last night and backed up three speakers, who told the legislators that a wage reduction at this time would be contrary to the policy advocated by well-known economists and bad business for the state.

Takes Firm Stand

But when the speaking had ended Chairman L. P. Mooney, Republican of Hocking county, taken unawares by the demonstration, announced the committee would stand by its decision whether the employes like it or not. When they sought to press their arguments further he called abruptly for adjournment.

"We prepared an appropriations bill calling for the expenditure of $74,000,000 which we thought necessary to operate the state government," said Mooney "but the revenues that are needed are not forthcoming. It is the duty of this committee to balance the state budget. And whether you like it or not the committee will balance the budget, even if there is a parade that makes the hunger marchers who were here recently look like pikers."

FEDERAL ROUTE 30 LOST TO MARION AT HIGHWAY MEET

Present Road To Be Designated as "30 South"; Merrell Recommendation for Equal Split Is Ignored by State Officials.

ACTION TAKEN AT MEETING IN CHICAGO

Marion has lost federal route 30. A section of the route between Mansfield and Delphos was relocated to a more direct route by action of the executive board of the American Association of State Highway officials in Chicago, according to Associated Press dispatches.

The more direct route between Mansfield and Delphos will be designated as federal route 30 within a few months. Marion will be on an alternative route known as route "30 south," as a result of action by the association.

Recommendation Ignored

A plan of compromise recommended by O. W. Merrell, state highway director, was ignored, Merrell said today. His plan, one on which backers of both routes had agreed on, was to split the route equally at Mansfield and Delphos, send part of the traffic through Marion on route 30 south and a part over the more direct route on route 30 north.

This recommendation was made orally to the association yesterday and in writing three weeks ago, Merrel said.

The new route 30 will be identical with route 5, joining Mansfield and Delphos by way of Bucyrus, Upper Sandusky, Williamstown and Cairo.

Relocation of the route probably will take place within the next three months when new markers are distributed after corrected maps have been issued by the association, Merrell said today.

Decision Is Final

The decision of the association is final, Merrell said. Not until the association meets again in a year can any group of backers of the route again lay the matter before the officials.

Carl J. Gugler of Galion, president of the Harding Highway association, has led a fight to retain the route through Galion, Marion, Kenton and Lima.

Decision of the association yesterday terminates a three-year controversy between proponents of the new route and backers of the old route. The Harding Highway association has been actively engaged in the fight, together with civic organizations of Galion, Marion, Kenton and Lima, which are located on the old route.

Other routes in Ohio fixed by the board follow:

U. S. 6, absorbs 322 and state route 2 from Cleveland to Fremont, and the present state route by way of Napoleon and Bryan.

U. S. 62 is extended north from Mayaville, Ky., by way of Washington C. H., Columbus, Canton, Salem and Sharon, Pa.

U. S. 22 is extended west from Cambridge by way of Zanesville and Washington C. H., to Cincinnati.

Mexican Embassy Sends Official Word to U. S. State Department.

By The Associated Press

ARDMORE, Okla., June 9—Murder charges were filed here today against Deputy Sheriffs William Guess and Cecil Crosby for the slaying early yesterday of Emilio Cortes Rubio, young cousin of the president of Mexico, and his chum, Manuel Gomez.

Informed by County Attorney Marvin Shilling that charges were to be filed the officers said they wished that to be done quickly to absolve themselves of blame.

Each officer said the shooting occurred after the two Mexicans, students returning home from United States schools, had displayed automatic pistols. Shilling said his investigation disclosed Guess fired the fatal shots.

Young Rubio, 18, and Gomez, 22, were shot while parked on a highway awaiting the return of Salvador Cortes Rubio, a cousin of the former, to their motor car.

State and county investigations were under way to determine finally where blame lies for the tragedy.

The Mexican embassy in Washington requested the state department to open an investigation.

Classroom Baby Cared for by Six 'Mothers;' Change Each Week

By International News Service

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Six mothers per baby. That's one feature of the unusually practical course given to the girls of the Home Economics Department of Seton Hill college, at Greensburg near here.

The baby, "loaned" to the school from the Roselia Maternity Hospital, Pittsburgh, is enrolled as a student in the course, too,—for eight weeks. It has a different "mother" every week.

A group of six girls comprise the class, under the direction of the head of the department, Miss Pauline Sanders, and they have a model home which they conduct in all phases of domestic activity—the most important of which is the caring for a live, very real baby.

They learn, actually by experience and not through "books," how to cook for a child, how to feed it, clothe it, when to put it to bed, how to still its crying.

"We believe this training fills a two-fold purpose," Miss Sanders explained.

"First, it teaches a college girl the correct way of taking care of a baby.

Secondly, it is one way in which a girl can find out if she wants to be married and have a home of her own. If the baby makes her nervous, bores her, irritates her—then she has her eyes opened to the responsibilities which marriage will bring her."

In rotating order the girls of the class will take charge of the infant. While one girl tends the child for the week, others are doing the marketing, cleaning, cooking, and so forth.

These college housekeepers operate on the budget system, even in regard to the temporarily adopted child. For $4 a week the child is fed, clothed and the necessary toilet supplies purchased.

The entire "family" is allotted $23.50 a week to take care of the household. Every eight weeks a new group of girls takes over the home with its little nursery and crib and a new child appears from the hospital.

A DAY of much surprise, sudden adventure or unusual experience is presaged by the lunar aspects, especially significant of this by the moon's conjunction with Uranus, the planet of the abrupt, unconventional and iconoclastic. Sign papers carefully.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of some turmoil and confusion, with suddenly precipitated changes, removals or journeys. This critical state of affairs should not be complicated by impetuous, violent or ill-considered acts or words. In some repects it may mark "the parting of the ways." Expect Drafts for Settlement of Case

Drafts for the payment of a settlement made recently in common pleas court in the damage actions of Beryle Bachelder and Roie Bachelder against William Haley are expected to arrive in Marion this week, according to attorneys in the case.

A settlement was effected a few moments before the case of Beryle Bachelder against Haley was scheduled to go to a common pleas jury. Claims of all parties in the automobile accident in which automobiles accupied by Haley and the Bachelders participated were settled for $6,000, according to Grant E. Mouser of the law firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant, who with the firm of Deeds & Cole represented the Bachelders. The law firm of Carhart & Warner represented the defendant.

BOARD BUYS COAL FOR TERM

School Officials Accept $3.64 a Ton Proposal for Fuel.

The Marion Grain & Supply Co. was given the coal contract for the next school term by the Marion city board of education last night at a bid of $3.64 a ton for 2,000 tons, more or less.

The award was made on Manhattan coal, mined in the Hocking district of Ohio. When prices were tabulated and compared on a heat unit basis, this bid was low, Supt George A. Bowman said. The Manhattan coal will be delivered in two by four inch egg and four inch square lump.

First deliveries will be made within a few weeks when between 1,300 and 1,400 tons will be placed in bins of various city schools. The remainder will be purchased and delivered as needed.

13 Submit Bids

Thirteen companies submitted 43 bids for coal this year. These were tabulated a month ago and have been studied and compared carefully by school officials and members of the board since that time. Other bidders were Baldauf & Schlientz, the City Ice & Fuel Co., J. D. Wise & Son, L. B. Kerr, Marion Lumber Co., the Millard Hunt Co., the Ohio Farm Bureau, E. F. Patton & Sons, Centennial Coal Co., Economy Lumber Co., D. C. Gaster, M. & M. Coal Co.

A year ago, the board paid $4.54 a ton for West Virginia coal.

Contracts for furnishing shop equipment needed in the new junior high school in Oakland Heights were shared in by five concerns. Contracts were let to Mautz Bros. Hardware of Marion for miscellaneous shop supplies, $32.53; to Osborne & Sexton Machinery Co. of Columbus for shop equipment, $93.10; to H. O. Crawbaugh Hardware of Marion for shop equipment, $79.84; to F. O. Schoedinger of Columbus for sheet metal supplies, $636.61; to H. O. Crawbaugh Hardware for small tools, $162.12; to Mautz Bros. for small tools, $387.26; to Osborne & Sexton Machinery Co. for small tools, $70.32; to Eugene Deitzgen of Chicago for mechanical drawing supplies, $259.22. The total is $1,721.30.

Other Proposals

Fourteen concerns submitted bids. In addition to successful bidders, proposals were submitted by the E. A. Kensey Co. of Cincinnati, the Patterson Tool & Die Co. of Cleveland, W. C. Roll of Cincinnati, Joseph T. Ryerson of Cleveland, Strong, Carlisle & Hammond of Chicago, J. C. Turner Hardware of Marion, Charles Bruning of Chicago, Ill., Frederick Post of Chicago, Ill., and thee Keystone Blue Print Co. of Philadelphia, Pa.

Three financial reports were accepted by the board and ordered filed. The Harding High school athletic association submitted a report showing total receipts of $1,786.27, total disbursements of $1,340.25 and a balance on hand May 25 of $448.02. A similar report from the treasurer of the senior play shows receipts of $618.42, disbursements of $453.22 and a balance on hand May 25 of $165.20. The senior entertainment course report discloses receipts of $1,174.25, expenditures of $1,062.03 and a balance on hand May 25 of $112.22. All reports were submitted by Ervin H. Shade, treasurer of Harding high school funds.

Our Store Will Remain Open All Day Wednesday—During June—For The Service of the Shopping Public!

IF LOW PRICES

Will Help Cure This Depression Uhler-Phillips Is Helping Mightily By Offering The Greatest Values In More Than A Decade!

In the wave of hysteria which followed a period of frenzied speculation the year before last, people's first thought was to conserve as frantically as they had spent. In an almost unprecedented way this immediately retarded the wheels of commerce and resulted in a serious state of affairs. AMAZING THINGS HAVE HAPPENED DURING THE PAST SEVENTEEN MONTHS. The prices of raw silk, wool and silver have dropped to points lower than they have been at any time during the century. Cotton is lower than it has been in 16 years.

The prices of finished goods are lower tha they have been in many years; TOO LO for the producers of raw materials, for tho whose prosperity we wish as eagely as we our own.

We are trying to help end the depression making Uhler-Phillips' prices so low and tempting on absolute necessities, as well on things that make life a little pleasant that all of us, even those who purses are co siderably flattened, can afford to have wh we want.

For Proof of Uhler-Phillips' Lowered Prices Just Visit Our Store Any Day This Month—

Thrift, after all, is nothing more nor less than intelligent spending. It can lead our country out of this depression.

We know this is more than possible. Intelligent people are buying more and more. During the month of May we sold more individual articles than in any other May in our history.

And selling more articles at new low prices will help cure this depression. FOR WE, AND ALL STORES, WILL THEN NEED TO EMPLOY MORE SAL AND DELIVERY PEOPLE: WHOLESALE MANUFACTURERS, FARMERS AND MI OWNERS WILL NEED TO EMPLOY MO WORKERS. This decreasing unemployment make those now employed more sure of their jo which will enable them to spend more freely—wh in turn will give more and more employment those now out of work.

HEIR TO CONTINUE IN CHARITY LAW CLINIC

California Man Inherits Money, but Declines To Quit Post.

By International News Service

LOS ANGELES—Despite the fact that he has inherited approximately $1,000,000 and will receive the income of a $500,000 trust fund, Col. John W. Barnes, retired army officer announces that he will continue to serve as counseling attorney in the legal clinic at the University of Southern California.

Col. Barnes was named principal beneficiary in the will of his uncle, the late Charles W. Gould, attorney and trustee of the American Museum of Art, who lived in New York City.

"The bequest will make absolutely no difference in my program for the future," declared Col. Barnes, whose work consists in giving legal advice free of charge to those who cannot afford to employ an attorney and come to the law clinic for assistance.

"The only possible difference this bequest could make is to enable me to do still more work along this line at the legal clinic in which I am vitally interested."

Col. Barnes' story is a colorful and inspiring one.

Having spent the greater share of his life in the American army in the Orient, where he engaged in numerous exciting campaigns, he was incapacitated for further military duty late in his middle years by an explosion which shattered an ear drum.

Instead of retiring, Col. Barnes enrolled at the University of Southern California in 1927 and graduated in law. Since that time he has served on the staff of legal clinic.

DUELS CONTINUE

Writer Says Petty Quarrels Still Settled with Bullets

PARIS—The duel is not dead in France, in spite of what some of the papers say. On the contrary, it was never more alive than at the present time according to a writer in "Candide." He reports no less than four important duels during the past week and even goes so far as to print the names of the opposing parties.

The duel still endures, the writer reports, although now the fashionable gentlemen do not come to the meets in tall silk hats and black redingote. Photographers are no longer convoked, but all this takes away nothing from the seriousness of the duel today.

The causes are generally small bar-quarrels which cannot be brought before the courts, lovetiffs caused by jealousy, misinterpretations of one's talents, or lack of them—all of which merit at least two or three bullets lost in space.

Being a young intellectual is what used to be called bumptiousness.

HEADS SHOW HERE THURSDAY

Col. Zack T. Miller, the last of the famous Miller Brothers of Oklahoma, and one of the founders of the 101 Ranch Real Wild West show.

* * *

After an absence of several years, the famous 101 Ranch Real Wild West show will exhibit at Marion Thursday, June 11, at Fairground and Greenwood streets giving two performances, at 2 and 8 p. m.

The 101 Ranch is one of the few big shows that still adhere to the old custom of giving a big, colorful street parade during the forenoon of the exhibition day.

A great many circus features and novelties have been added this season to the regular wild west show program. There are elephants, camels, buffalo, oxen, longhorns with the 101, and the long orange-colored stock cars of the trains will bring hundreds of horses, bronchos, Arabian stallions, blooded jumpers and flat racers, ring steeds, mustangs, outlaws, Chinese and Cossack cavalry mounts.

Famous Indian chiefs and warriors and the fairest of Indian maidens will be found among the scores of redskins with the huge western troupe, and the cowboys and cowgirls are said to be of champion rating in rough riding, broncho busting, roping and bulldogging. "Suicide Ted" Elder, the world's foremost rodeo trick rider, is one of the features of the show this season.—Adv.

MARION AFTER 1932 TRAVELERS' MEETING

Delegates To Leave for Portsmouth for Convention This Week.

Members of the local order of the United Commercial Travelers, who will attend the annual convention of the order at Portsmouth this week, are planning a campaign to bring the 1932 convention to this city, it was announced today by E. H. Huggins, secretary.

Those from this city who will wage the fight for the 1932 convention besides Huggins, are R. F. Williams, who will represent the local order as a delegate, W. H. Unger, Charles Moore and Edward Glimpse.

Huggins, who in addition to being secretary of the local order, is a member of the grand executive committee, will go to Portsmouth Wednesday to attend a meeting of the secretaries and treasurers of the order and on Thursday a meeting of the grand executive committee.

The convention will open Friday and will be featured by the selection of a place for the 1932 meeting. The annual election of officers will take place Saturday and the convention will close with a parade Saturday afternoon.

Considering the vast quantity of ill-will, it doesn't do the damage one might except from its volume.

You generally can't shock people without disgusting them. Consider that.

FAT MEN

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 4 weeks and cut out pastries, sugar and fatty meats—

You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 4 weeks. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and probably live years longer. Get Kruschen at Henney & Cooper or any live druggist in America with the understanding that you must be joyfully satisfied or money back.

Athletes from Mt. Olympus.

The tenth annual Collegiate Athletic association meet held in Chicago, though not favored by good track weather, displayed a group of performers which any nation in the world would be glad to claim. Indeed, there is reason to wonder sometimes if the gods on Mt. Olympus ever could have boasted of men who were able to run 100 yards in less than ten seconds, throw the javelin 215 feet, jump almost twenty-five feet, and throw a discus 152 feet.

The meet had a California flavor, as did the intercollegiate meet in Philadelphia the preceding Saturday. Southern California gained seventy-seven and one-seventh points to Ohio State university's second place thirty-one and one-seventh points. Evidently the centralization of better-than-average physical types in the land of sunshine is beginning to show in the new generation. It is the second consecutive year that Southern California has scored an outstanding victory in the meet.

One's mind inevitably turns to the possibility that California may see many native sons at next year's Olympic games in Los Angeles. Particularly in the field events do California college athletes stand preeminent above all others. Few easterners can compete with the young giants of California—products of an all-year outdoor climate and selected stock. It is significant, however, that the East holds its own creditably in running events.

There is less talk these days about the better men of the old days. It takes only a moment's scrutiny of the records of the men who are making American athletic standards as good or better than any in the world to show that there is little to worry about on the score of physical retrogression.

Money Makes Talk.

The national and state organizations of the two major political parties spent $16,586,115 in the campaigns of 1928. It was the most expensive campaign in history, and probably will hold first place for a long time to come.

Salvage from the break up of the campaign was small, consisting of a small surplus for the Republican party. The Democrats incurred a deficit that is still worrying them. And now it is time to get out and raise more money to make more talk. The prospect is not pleasant.

Democrats will attempt to raise $6,000,000, in three parts. The first million, to be raised as soon as possible, will pay off the deficit and finance party operations up to the time of the convention. An intermediate goal of $500,000 is established to raise money for campaign efforts immediately after the convention, and the third goal of $4,500,000 is to be reached by general effort, meaning intense cultivation of prospective givers. The Democratic plans are outlined in a pamphlet issued recently. They include, incidentally, a slogan for the money-raising effort, as well as the bestowing of medals on donors to the fund.

Republican plans have not been announced as yet, but they too doubtless, will betray a similar degree of care. There are always many things easier to do than raise money for political campaigns, particularly during a time when every one is so ready and willing to talk about depression.

One is led to wonder sometimes if voters might not take more interest in politics if they only could know how the brows of eminent men have been plowed deep by worry over raising the money to furnish the talk that is supposed to interest them. It must appear on occasion that the ones who are supposed to profit from the campaigns are the least interested of all.

The Boys' Club Federation of America has been organized for the purpose of protecting caddies against the language occasionally used on golf courses following dub shots. Those boys have tackled a man-sized job.

A Woman's Favor.

The British do unexpected things. A considerable number of unmarried British women, in response to a statistician's inquiries, have revealed that good looks are a drawback in the men they hope to marry. Perhaps the response only seems unexpected, a similar inquiry might reveal the same idea among unmarried women in the United States.

The explanation, according to a woman who is paid for explaining such things, is that women prefer the center of the stage themselves. A handsome husband—handsome to the point of ostentation—would steal their stuff. Perhaps the women it question wouldn't put it just that way, but their instincts warn them to keep clear of competition.

When one stops to think about it, the lovers of history, at least those who were outstanding enough to get their pictures preserved, never could have qualified as models for men's wear. Rugged, rough-hewn chaps with large noses or unruly hair, many of them, and, judging from what little is known of their adventures and methods, they depended not so much on handsome profiles as ready wit, gay banter, energy, resourcefulness and audacity to get along. While a more comely man would have been spending hours on preparation, the truly successful suitor for a woman's favor probably would be on the scene, hard at work making a good impression with his personality, thus gaining an early lead over his handsome rival.

That's the way it's supposed to work out. In spite of the frankness of the British unmarried ladies in admitting their preference, however, a lot of homely men will continue to bewail the whim that caused them to be as they are.

An Intelligent Attitude.

The alumni of Ohio State university, by refusing to mix into the recent series of controversies that has stirred the campus, have shown remarkably good sense. The session of their attitude will be more forceful than any sonorous resolutions they might have adopted.

When a motion was offered at the annual meeting of the Alumni association last Saturday to appoint a committee of five to study the campus situation, particularly as regarded the dismissal of Professor Herbert A. Miller from the faculty, Colonel George L. Converse reminded the meeting that the association was formed to aid and assist the university when called upon. So far there has been no such call. The motion, subsequently, was tabled.

The Alumni association's course might serve well as a guide to many others in the present situation. The board of trustees and president of Ohio State have faced a difficult predicament and maintained their balance. Until it is proved otherwise, they are more capable of running the university than those without responsibility or capability who have presumed they were entirely wrong in dismissing a professor they felt did not fit in with the university's plan of education.

The delegate of the French employers to the international labor conference in Geneva told the assemblage that the 'dole' idea causes much unemployment for the reason that it permits of the stabilization of wages at a certain level and does not permit wages to be adapted to the economic situation. Have French employers just found this out?

Sir Abe Bailey, a South African millionaire and big figure in the world of finance, urges the United States to cancel the war debts owed her as a cure for the slump. There seems to be general agreement, outside the United States, that this country should pay for the war.

Statistics gleaned by the Pennsylvania railroad's department of safety show that forty-two per cent. of all the grade crossing accidents on that road during the first three months of the present year were caused by motorists running into trains, but despite this continued recklessness on the part of some drivers the crossing accidents on that road during 1930 were thirty-two per cent. fewer than in 1929. Motorists evidently are becoming more careful but there is still an element among them which persists in trying to "beat the train to the crossing."

WASTE IN CONGRESS.

Congressman Robert Luce, probably the greatest authority in this country on parliamentary procedure, makes a searching analysis of the wasteful effects of lost motion in congress, which ought to be an eye-opener to the voters, if they needed any, of the incapacity of that body to transact its business efficiently. He deals both concretely and in the abstract with the conditions which exist, and are growing worse. For example, Mr. Luce points out, we have an average of 700 bank failures every year, about which congress has done nothing. The radio problems of wave lengths and advertising could have been solved by prompt legislation; and while other nations are preparing their exhibits for the coming Chicago exposition, this country has not even indicated that it will participate in it.

Viewing the situation more broadly, Mr Luce tells us that more than one-quarter of the bills reported to the house at the last session were not acted upon at all, and that between 800 and 1,000 passed one branch and were not acted upon by the other. Some 200 of these were public bills, of practical use to the people, while the remainder were private measures, whose failure deprived their beneficiaries of whatever of justice, equity, mercy or generosity the committees had held to be deserved. Another phase of the situation indicates the immense amount of faithful committee work which is wasted by slipshod methods of doing business. Mr. Luce adverts also to the wasteful practice of reading every bill coming up for action which, he says, consumes at least a month in "clerical enunciation." The irony of all this is suggested by the fact that this archaic habit persisted years ago in the British parliament, for the simple reason that many of the members could neither read nor write.

Mr. Luce is a potential candidate for speaker, but aside from that his criticisms might profitably be considered by the incoming congress. The house, with only a few technical changes, might enormously speed up its work, to the great advantage of its constituencies, but the senate presents a harder nut to crack, for there the rule of unanimous consent and unlimited debate, while it represents a chronic defect which costs the taxpayers many millions of dollars and is found in no other legislative body on earth, is so entrenched in the personal selfishness of senators that it bids fair to remain a standing reproach to "the greatest deliberative body on earth."—Boston Transcript.

AN OUTSIZE IN STARS.

Hidden away in the sky there is said to be a twinkle-twinkle little star that is 175 times larger in mass than the sun. A Canadian astronomer has discovered this luminary, declared to be one of the most massive definitely known. Notwithstanding the "outsize" or "extra stout" characteristic of the newly-discovered star, it is, to use a shop-worn bromide, invisible to the naked eye.

This addition to the 223,000 twinkle-twinkles which already are listed in the star book has no name, but is recorded as H. D. 698, which reminds one of an automobile plate and suggests that it may be the purpose of the star labelers to place it fore and aft of the newly discovered luminary in order that it may be readily identified in case of violation of any of the sky traffic regulations.

The new star is said to be a sort of double-yolk affair in which the separation may be a couple of millions of miles or so with the larger part dragging the smaller along a path that varies according to its gravity. But H. D. 698, which makes the sun look like a dried pea in comparison, may not be able long to hold the sky championship. There are unconfirmed reports of still another giant twinkle-twinkle which is said to be giving the astronomers of the Yerkes observatory in Wisconsin somewhat more of a chase than they expected. It has not yet reached the scales, but preliminary estimates place it somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,000 times greater than the sun. If this is substantiated by later authenticated reports, H. D. 698 is likely to drop into the honorable mention class when the stellar records of the year are made up.

In the meanwhile new and more powerful telescopes may bring into view whole flocks of twinkle-twinkles of a size that will make the sun look like the tail light on a passing firefly.—Christian Science Monitor.

"Carriers" May Be Immune.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In 1904, this country suffered greatly from an epidemic of cerebro-spinal fever. Within five years the disease spread to every part of the world.

Due to energetic measures on the part of the medical profession and public health officials, this disease is now quiescent. It is heard of only in small epidemics and it is hoped that we will never again have the experience of 1904.

Cerebro spinal fever is a disease caused by the germ known as the "meningococcus." The disease is often confused with meningitis. But meningitis is more common and may be caused by a variety of germs. For instance, it may follow infection with the germs of tuberculosis, pneumonia or typhoid fever. Cerebro-spinal fever can only be caused by the meningococcus germ.

The germ enters the body through the lining membrane of the nose and throat. From here it reaches the covering of the brain and spinal cord.

The disease is contracted by actual contact with the germ or with a person harboring the germs. It is quite possible to obtain the disease by indirect contact. It may come from fingers, dishes, any objects or food contaminated by a victim of the disease.

This disease is particularly difficult to control because of the many "carriers" of the infection. A "carrier" is a person who harbors the germs of a disease without knowing it. Though he may appear to be well, he is able to infect others.

It is necessary that all carriers of this disease be recognized and isolated. All local health departments are not instructed in methods of detecting these dangerous persons.

By means of a swab, the secretions of the back of the nose and throat may be obtained. These are stained with a special dye and examined with a special dye and examined for the meningococcus germ. If found to be present, the individual must be isolated and receive treatment.

All persons with the acute disease, just as the 'carriers' of the disease, must be isolated. It is imperative that they receive proper care. They must not be discharged from the hospital until definite confirmation of their cure has been made. With isolation of all fresh cases and care of the "carriers," it is hoped eventually to eradicate this disease.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

A Transplanted Church.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

On May 1, 1805, a Congregational church was formally organized at Granville, Massachusetts, with the express intention of transferring the organization at once to Ohio. It was the first organized invasion of Ohio by that denomination. The previous year an immigration organization had been formed among the people of Granville to purchase lands and colonize in the state of Ohio, then not quite two years old.

Early in the spring of 1805, five men had gone to the place selected for the location of the new town in Ohio to make preparations for the main body of the colony. The first party of the immigrants arrived at the Licking county site, November 2. Twenty-four persons had united in the organization of the Congregational church back in Massachusetts. They numbered twenty-five when the time came to go, and in addition, they had affiliated with them one member of the Baptist church.

Presumably members of the church organization figured largely in the first party, for they religiously observed Sunday by resting on that day. It was found that they had made the journey out in forty-four days. Ten days later, the second party arrived—a party probably less religiously inclined for they had traveled right along, Sundays included—and yet it was found that it had taken them forty-nine days to cover the same ground—a fact that the more religious of them did not fail to point out and emphasize.

In the entire company of several such immigration parties, all made up of those who had signed an agreement to colonize, there were 234 persons, in which there were about fifty heads of families, and the twenty-six members of the transplanted church represented the virile Christian element; however, practically the entire company was favorable to religion.

Considering the dominant religious tone of the Granville of today, one might conclude that some powerful religious leaven has represented by that lone Baptist who came out under the guardianship of the transplanted Congregational church, but, of course, the Baptist predominance in Granville today is the result of the accidental location of their college there.

Enigmas of Physics.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

A singular situation is arising in modern physics, largely as the result of the quantum mechanics and the newer developments of Heisenberg, which are doing more than affecting the fundamentals of physics. Similar effects are being produced by the anomalous situation in which the ether finds itself today. Scientists are deeply perturbed because they are forced, at different times, to use theories which are mutually incompatible. One moment, known results are correctly derived by the old Newtonian mechanics, another moment, the Einsteinian mechanics must be resorted to, in order to arrive at known results, such as the minute shift in the spectral lines.

Consider the perilous state in which the ether finds itself today. Is the ether stationary or does moving matter drag the ether along with it? When a bar of metal is moving with enormous velocity in the direction of its length, does it actually suffer the contraction posited by Fitzgerald? Or is this only an "Einstein effect" produced by the relativity of space and time? Is this contraction, whether actual or fictitious, precisely the amount necessary to account for the inexplicable result of the famous Michelson-Morley experiment? How does it come about that nature seems to conspire against the scientists to defeat their utmost efforts to determine absolute velocity?

The effect of these various antinomies upon physics has been immense and exceedingly perturbing. There is great need for a modern master of quantum mechanics, of the caliber of Clerk Maxwell, to place the law of causality upon a sound basis once more.

Even more far-reaching have been the effects of the new physical theories and discoveries upon philosophy. The very laws of philosophy, of thought, have been impugned. Here and there is heard the suggestion that the new physics is compelling a reorganization of the old "laws" of thought. The new physics, with all its complexities and contradictions, requires the development of a more refined logical technic.

Professor Oliver L. Reiser, of the University of Pittsburgh, has recently put these matters in a very clear light in the current issue of "Psyche." He is engaged in analyzing some of the new suggestions made by scholars and thinkers like the late Dr. Francis Dercum, L. E. J. Brouwer, B. B. Bogoslovsky and P. W. Bridgman. Professor Reiser shows that doubt of a sort has been thrown on such axioms of logical thinking as the following: Whatever is, is; a thing is what it is, a thing is where it is; the same thing can not be in two different places at the same time, and finally, in order that a thing can get from one place to another, it must move through the intervening space, and it must take some time to do this.

A question has been set opposite each one of these "axioms" of thought by the new physical theories. These theories are perhaps not, as yet, exact enough, refined enough. How can an electron be at once corpuscular and undulating? How can an electron be a tiny point-charge and yet have an electro-magnetic "field" extending throughout all space? Are the physical theories wrong? Or must we overhaul the very foundation of logic? No one knows the answer?—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

REVIVE TALK ON WAR DEBT

Proposal To Stop Payments to U. S. Again Discussed in Europe.

CONFERENCE CONCLUDED

German Demands for New Deal Expected When Envoys Arrive Home.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 9—The possibility of suspension of debt payments to the United States occupied a large part today in newspaper speculation over the results of a week-end conference between German and British officials.

The Daily Mail featured a dispatch from the Vossiche Zeiung of Berlin predicting that the Reich would demand postponement of the "deferable" payments of the Young plan as soon as Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius return from their conference with British officials. On the basis of that the Mail predicted Germany might suspend reparations payments next fall.

If this occurs, the Mail said, France and Italy might feel obliged to suspend payments to the United States on their war debts and Great Britain would be placed in a difficult position in the same connection.

Bruening and Curtius left London this morning for their homeland after their week-end conference.

The possibility of calling for a general suspension of payments to the United States in the event of Germany's default is occupying the minds of European statesmen, the paper said, and "it is abundantly evident that a grave new economic issue is arising."

Informed quarters are increasingly convinced that the promise of "international collaboration" at the conference just closed in England and the coming visit of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, foreshadow a concerted move on the part of all nations to settle the general subject of war debts and reparations.

GRAF TO MEET NAUTILUS AT POLE

DR. HUGO ECKENER — COMPOSITE SHOWING HOW GRAF and NAUTILUS WILL MEET. — SIR HUBERT WILKINS

By International News Service

BERLIN, Germany—Two strange craft, representing opposite extremes in mode of travel, will bring to reality what is probably the most unique rendezvous in the history of man's exploring of the world. The meeting will take place at the North Pole in July, when Sir Hubert Wilkins, in his undersea Nautilus, in which he plans to reach the earth's summit by navigating under the Polar icecap, will be greeted by Dr. Hugo Eckener, who will fly his giant of the air, the Graf Zeppelin, over the ice floes.

The announcement that Dr. Eckener had completed arrangements for the proposed meeting, created the greatest possible sensation here. Feverish preparations were begun at Friedrichshafen, home base of the Graf, where crews of workmen had been making preparations for the trip.

Notable Passenger List

Arctic explorers, scientists and experts in air and surface navigation will be among the passenger list of the Graf, which will start from its base at the Franz Josef-land, when the Nautilus is two days distance from the Pole. On board the giant airship will be representatives of four nations, Germany, the United States, Russia and England, in addition to Lady Drummond Hay, who has been a passenger on the former voyages of the Graf. Lady Hay will write in detail of this epic of the northland. The United States will be represented by Lieutenant Commander Edward H. Smith, of the coast guard service, an expert on arctic ice conditions, and Professor Samoilovich, who was aboard the Soviet icebreaker, Krassin, which went to the rescue of the Nobile expedition in 1928, will represent Soviet Russia.

Electric Anchorage

The giant airship will be equipped with an electric anchor, which will melt itself into the ice and when the current is shut off, will freeze solid, thus giving the Graf a firm anchorage. The anchor will be used in the event that the crew of Sir Hubert's Nautilus is not available as a landing crew when the Zeppelin reaches the place of rendezvous. The giant air liner will also carry a small balloon, rigged with a "cat's eye" which may be inflated and sent above the fog of cloudbanks to take observation, while the Nautilus is expected to keep the Graf advised by radio of weather conditions in the vicinity of the Pole.

The grizzled commander of the giant of the air is making elaborate preparations so that nothing conducive to the success of the flight to the Pole will be left to chance, while Sir Hubert Wilkins is successfully conducting a series of tests on the Nautilus prior to making his eventful trip to the Pole.

With the Graf Zeppelin moored to an electric anchor embedded in the frozen fields of the arctic within hailing distance of the submarine Nautilus, after completing a journey under the polar icecap, another hitherto undreamed of chapter will be written in the annals of man's conquering of the elements.

ASSAIL COLBY ON FEE CHARGE

Companies in War Claim Suit Answer Former Secretary of State.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—Efforts of Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state, to collect a fee of $333,333 in a war claims case have been met by the charge that he misrepresented facts in the suit to his client, the Inter-Ocean Oil Company, Inc., of New York. The suit is pending in the District of Columbia supreme court.

The company and its subsidiary the United States Asphalt Refining company, recovered approximately $1,000,000 in 1926 from Germany as damages for four ships sunk by submarines during the World war.

Colby and his law partner, Edward D. Brown of New York, represented the concern under an agreement that they would receive a third of the amount recovered through its attorneys, Harvey D. Jacobs and Walter M. Bastian, the Interocean Oil company contends the $333,333 is excessive in view of the work that Colby and his partner did and that the former induced the company to sign a written fee agreement my misrepresenting and concealing facts.

Colby denies the charges. The fee was upheld by Chandler Anderson, the American commissioner on the mixed claims commission. The company also contends that Colby knew but failed to inform it that the mixed claims commission would do practically all the work in connection with American claims, not even allowing a private attorney to appear before it.

LINDBERGH ASKED TO OPEN NEW TRAIL

Route for Voyage Proposed as "Future Airway to Asia."

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 8 — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife today were asked to blaze a new trail—a trail to be followed by commercial aviation between the United States and Asia—in their proposed flight from New York to Peiping, China.

The request was made by James Wickersham, delegate in congress from Alaska, who transmitted to Lindbergh maps of the route which, he says, aviation experts in Alaska believe will be the future airway to Asia.

This route, which would take the Lindberghs from New York to Hazelton, British Columbia, Fairbanks and Nome, Alaska, and into Siberia, can be made with an over-water jump of but 56 miles, Wickersham said. It is regarded by aviation experts in Alaska as far superior to the Aleutian island route, at first reported to be Lindbergh's choice, he added.

ITALY SENDS REPLY TO VATICAN PROTEST

Document Reported as Conciliatory in Tone, but Exact Terms Unknown.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 9—The Italian government today sent to Vatican City a reply to two notes of protest filed by Pope Pius against dissolution of Catholic clubs for laymen and anti-Catholic demonstrations of the past two weeks.

The document was said to be conciliatory in tone.

It was delivered by Count de Vecchi, the Italian ambassador, to Cardinal Pacelli, the papal secretary of state.

Archbishop Borgongini Duca, papal Nuncio, met the ambassador at the Vatican and the three statesmen conferred for more than an hour.

Italy's reply to the pope was said to include answers to several points raised by the Vatican regarding insults to the pontiff and demanding punishment of those guilty, reparations for alleged violation of extra-territoriality and an explanation for the closing of the Catholic clubs.

The exact terms were not disclosed but intimation that its tone was one of conciliation came from a thoroughly responsible source.

It could not be learned immediately, however, whether it constituted an apology to the Vatican.

N. Y. OFFICER SLAIN IN FIGHT WITH GUNMEN

Two Other Policemen Hurt in Harlem Battles with Holdup Men.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9—Police battles with holdup men in Harlem early today resulted in the killing of a police sergeant and the wounding of a detective and a patrolman.

Sergt. William H. O'Shaughnessy, on the force for 25 years, was killed in a Harlem cafe when he interrupted two Negroes, who had lined 30 patrons against a wall and were robbing them.

Four bullets hit O'Shaughnessy. The robbers dashed out, stole a taxi cab, and drove off. Other taxicab drivers took up the chase, picked up several policemen and caught up with the gunmen. In the exchange of shots, Patrolman Edward Ledden was wounded in the jaw, but he managed to wound and capture the Negroes.

Several blocks away Detective Ernest Rice, 34, walked into a restaurant hold-up and shot it out with the two gunmen. His wrist was fractured by a bullet, but he managed to wound both and capture one. About the time O'Shaughnessy was killed, detectives a few blocks away arrested two men suspected of having murdered Patrolman Maurice D. O'Brien, Jan. 30, 1930, as he broke up a dice game in One Hundred and Thirteenth street just off Fifth avenue.

SERVES PROCESS BUT GETS PUNCH ON JAW

Lindbergh Given Court Summons, but Happiness of Server Is Short Lived.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9—A process server had a tender jaw today because he was punched after serving a summons in a civil suit against Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were in the cockpits of their Lockheed plane at North Beach, Queens, ready to take off on a test flight with their newly attached pontoons yesterday afternoon, when a process served climbed on the craft an handed a paper to the colonel. The flier grinned, took it and put it in his pocked.

The process server was happy for a moment, only. "It's a cinch to serve Lindbergh," he said. "He's easier than the little fellows."

A mechanic with a big grimy fist swung and toppled the process server with one blow.

From friends of Lindberghs, it was learned that the suit was initiated by a clipping bureau. The same source said that Lindbergh had deposited a check with a bureau for clippings on his Atlantic flight to be delivered to his mother. When the amount of the check he issued for the clippings was used up, they still continued to arrive.

WOMAN INJURED AS OIL CAN EXPLODES

Burns, However, Are Not Serious; Was Rekindling Fire in Stove.

Luck favored Mrs. Hacel Pickens of Prospect road yesterday afternoon when burns on her arms was the extent of injuries she received when a can of kerosene exploded in her hands while she was attempting to revive a fire in a cookstove. The damage to the house was estimated by firemen at $100.

A few live coals concealed in the ashes was responsible for the explosion. Mrs. Pickens, whose burns were given first aid by the firemen, said she thought the fire was out and after putting a quantity of paper and kindling in the stove threw in kerosen from a five-gallon can.

An explosion followed that tore the top and bottom from the can and split it open. The interior of the kitchen was set afire. Firemen from the central station responded to a call sent in by neighbors and the blaze was extinguished with chemicals.

Aside from the burns on her arms and a soreness in her fingers as the result of the can bursting in her hands, Mrs. Pickens suffered no injury from the explosion.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?
Use Tyamol for Relief
Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm
The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tyamol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.
Tyamol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at

At last he went forward—slowly ... almost timidly—as if he feared the scene might vanish. She rose to ... greet him and smiled at the be... wildered expression of his face.

Doubting, joyous questioning, he cried, "Harriet!"

"I thought perhaps Pierre and I would find you here,' she said, gently freeing her hands from his. "We arrived early this afternoon."

Pierre came running to her with a flower. "Look mother! Here is another kind. Tell me the name of this one, mother."

"It is a violet dear" she answered. Then to Antonio. 'Can you realize, Tony that my little Pierre has never before seen a wild flower?"

But with a quick burst of feeling, she added, "I want him to know everything that you and I knew when we were children, Tony—everything."

"Everything, Harriet?"

She did not reply to this but said to the boy. Pierre, this is mother's old, old friend, Mr. Antonio Latour. Do you remember, dear, how I told you that Mr. Latour and mother were children together here in Orchard Hill and about all the things we used to do when he was a boy like you, and I was a little girl?"

"Yes," said Pierre gravely. "I remember." With the characteristic poise of a child of the stage he offered his hand. "How do you do, Mr. Latour." I remember meeting you when we played Cleveland last winter. You came back stage to see us." He turned to his mother and, taking the flower from her hand, offered it to Antonio. "This is a violet. Are you fond of violets Mr. Latour?" As he asked the question his grave eyes—too thoughtful and guarded for his years—were still searching Antonio's face.

"Yes, indeed, I am very fond of violets," Antonio replied heartily, with a quick glance at Harriet who was watching them with an expression on her face not unlike the look in the eyes of her son.

"I'll find some more for you" cried Pierre, and ran away to search in the tall grass.

Then Harriet told Antonio that she had left the stage forever and had come back to Orchard Hill to live so that her son might grow up in the wholesome life of the country. "I want my boy to have the happiness that you and I had in our childhood, Tony," she said passionately. "I want his boyhood to be filled with the woods and fields.

"I want him to have memories of a beautiful happy boyhood. He must not in his manhood have only bitter memories. He must forget some things with which he has been too familiar. If I continue on the stage he will not forget. My career"—her voice faltered, then a brave smile shone through the tears which filled her eyes—"my career now, Tony, is Pierre—just Pierre. And most of all Tony" she added softly, "I want my Pierre to have you."

As Harriet finished, her son returned with a small handful of violets. He offered the flowers to Antonio. "I picked them for you—there are lots more." And again the boy's gaze was fixed gravely upon the man's face.

Harriet rose hastily and went a little apart from them as if she, too, would gather flowers.

For a long moment Pierre looked after his mother, then he turned back impulsively to Antonio as if he had come to an important decision. "I like you" he said with a smile so like his mother's that the man's heart leaped. "Do you like me?"

"I love you, Pierre" Antonio answered gently.

The boy nodded as if they had reached a satisfactory understanding. Then with the air of merely stating a well known fact, he said "You probably are aware that I have no father."

"Yes" said Antonio "I know."

"Yes, you see, father ran away and so I had to take care of mother. I wish you were my father. I wonder why you weren't? You wouldn't run away from us, would you? I think I'll just take you for my father. I'm quite sure mother wouldn't mind if you don't. You love mother too don't you? I know she loves you. So you and I must love each other a lot. We will won't we? I shall call you Father Tony if that arrangement would be satisfactory to you."

Of course Orchard Hill believed the worst possible things of this man and woman upon whose youth they had frowned with such suspicion. They remarked this, and guessed that and suggested the other as to the relationship of Harriet and Tony in New York. They wondered if she had really married Donovan and if she had why did she still call herself Harriet Noel?

They wondered if Pierre really was Donovan's child and why did the boy call Antonio "father." In short they delighted to infect the wounds which Harriet had received, rather than heal them with kindly charity.

It was only natural that this attitude of the villagers should drive Harriet and Antonio closer together. Each in the other found a refuge.

Jubilee's Pardner

• • •

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Tuesday and warm and bammy again when I got up and let Jubilee down by his rope and put on my short britches and went downstairs and got the milk pail, and when I was milking the cows I gave Jubilee a few squirts when he sot up and opened his mouth, and then the bunch began to come and the Lost Bag of Tripe came pushing his face in and grinning. It was the first time he had showed up since he dropped the cat on my back whilst I was milking and I could see that he was wondering if I was going to push his face in but I was thinking about something else. So when I had fed my face I told the bunch to less have a game of mumbletypeg before we went and gathered up our cows to take them to the pasture so I went and sot down near the peg I had drove in the yellow jacket hole and told the Lost Bag of Tripe to set next to me and he sot almost on the peg and the rest of the bunch sot around in a circle, and when it was the Lost Bag of Tripe's turn I reached over and pulled the bottom of his coat out over the peg and then pulled out the peg, and everything worked better than I thought it would. The yellow jackets must have been mad at being shut up so long and they must have begun to get their work in on Nibs, and I was hollering my head off when a yellow jacket soaked me under the left ear and I went away from there and the bunch after me. The girls were left so sudden that we were at the pasture before they got started good but I bet if the yellow jackets had handed them one or two they could have caught us.

When we got over by the creek we pulled the Lost Bag of Tripe's shirt up and looked at his back and he looked like he had the measles. We began to plaster him with mud to take the pain out but he began to holler for us to take the mud off so Peanuts pushed him in the creek. I put some blue clay on the sting under my ear and that made it feel better.

The Lost Bag of Tripe took off his clothes to wring them out and then we saw the girls climbing the fence and we grabbed his clothes and went over and hung them on the fence and then we played with the girls and hunted berries almost all day and he had to stay in the creek till the sun began to go down and we took the cows home. That will show him what anyone gets that munkys with me. We had strawberry shortcake for supper and my mother said I must have been empty down to my toes. That is a good way to be when there is strawberry shortcake.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Indifference Prompts a "Lecture."

"YOU don't need to give me three guesses," Mary said as I turned from the telephone after instructing the Western Union operative to send over the telegram signed Philip Veritzen. "I told you I had a prophetic soul. Isn't that wire from the Veritzens, pere et fils?"

There was an edge in her voice which told me that she had not yet forgiven Noel for the letter telling her of the daughter of Philip Veritzen's best friend—a man whose death had much affected the great producer—and of the literary companionship which the girl was giving the young musician. Lillian and I had been amused at her anger, but selfishly pleased as well, for it had impelled her to promise to accompany Marion on the week-end party which the Brixtons "were slinging"—the atrocious slang of the girls.

A True Prophetess

"You are a true phophetess, this time, Mary," I told her with a lightness I was far from feeling. "The wire was from Philip Veritzen."

"Was it marked 'urgent' Lillian asked gravely, for she, Katherine and Marion were standing with Mary in the hall, exhibiting the interest with which all members of a family generally regard a telegram.

"Yes, it was."

"Can you beat it, or even tie it," Lillian apostrophized the others. "This aplomb, this indiff-er-inx! The greatest play producer in the world sends a budding aspirant a telegram marked 'urgent,' and she won't take time to listen to it over the telephone, just tells 'em to send it down. Any time within the next day or two—why didn't you tell 'em?"

"See if I Care"

There was real exasperation in her voice, and I suddenly questioned the wisdom of my hasty decision. Lillian knew better than any one in the world the intensity of my desire to succeed in this, my first attempt at creative work, solely my own, for the libretto I had written for Noel's composition, now waiting his nature to be put in rehearsal, had been subordinated to the exquisite music. She knew also, though no better than I because of my professional association with him, how jealous of his dignity, how quickly provoked to anger at any disregard of his instructions was Philip Veritzen.

But I found that my common sense could not vanquish my reluctance to have the message read to me over the telephone. Vaguely I feared that he might be in it, and wished to be alone when I should read it. With an effort I smiled at Lillian and answered her strictures flippantly.

"I didn't have to tell 'em. That girl will probably take a day or two anyway, judging from her drawl."

"And you're not going to reconsider your decision," Lillian said with a keen look at my face. "Well! don't say I didn't warn you if old Phil suddenly decides he doesn't want your play after all. And don't suppose me to buy any lead pencils or slate sponges when you start off with your first cup, for I shall try or adamant, soil adamant. But you might consider little Mary's feelings. How do you know but what the urgent part concerns young Noel?"

"See if I care if it does," Mary said with a defensive hardness in her voice. "As far as I'm concerned, that message can wait until week after next."

But I knew that she was whistling in the dark, and that in reality she would give much to know what was in the telegram. By my disincination to listen to it I was proof against even the sudden wish to relieve her mind.

Lillian's Argument

"I agree with you, Mary," I said briskly, "and now if you don't mind, I'm going out on the veranda until dinner time. I haven't been outdoors since morning."

"Good idea," Katherine said heartily, and I went down to the veranda where Lilian joined me a minute later.

"I know what happens to the meddlesome Matties of this old world," she said, "but won't you let Harry drive me down to get that telegram? I can understand your not wanting to read over the telephone, but honestly, old dear, a telegram marked 'urgent' from old Phil, isn't anything to play marbles with unless you really don't care anything about your dramatic future. And I'm saying this with a full appreciation of your reluctance to see him or hear from him. However if you won't you won't, but don't be mad my me!"

"Another Telegram?"

"But I will," I said with sudden resolution, for it is a rare occasion indeed, when I flout Lillian's judgment. "I'll telephone immediately that you're coming after it."

But when I called the telegraph office, the operator informed me proudly that the message was on the way, and it was but a few minutes later that the boy came up the steps with it. But to my dismay, Dicky came around the house at the same instant, stopping short as he saw the boy hand me the yellow envelope.

"Another telegram?" he said with an unpleasant intonation in his voice. "You're getting to be as popular as a prom-trotter."

COUNCIL TRANSFERS FUNDS TO PAY BILLS

Police, Firemen To Get June 1 Pay This Week.

In order to provide money enough to make up the payroll of the police and fire department for the June 1 pay, city council at its meeting last night, transferred $1,310 from the general fund, $2,245 from the service fund and $825 from the hospital fund, to the safety fund.

With the meeting of the June 1 payroll, the city has reached the limit of its financial ability, city officials said yesterday, and no money will be available for any purpose until next month when an advance will be made upon the June tax settlement.

The only employes of the city who will receive their pay at the scheduled time, until next month will be those employed in the garbage collection department which is self-supporting and those employed in the street repair department of the service department, who are paid from the gasoline tax money.

What the final solution of the financial problem will be, is a matter of serious conjecture with city officials, but that some drastic action will be necessary during the last months of the year, is almost a foregoing conclusion. Officials however hesitate to venture an opinion as to just how drastic the action will be.

WEDS HUSBAND NUMBER ELEVEN

A short while before this picture was made the male half of the duo was the captain of his soul, but now he is just one of the crew. The happy occasion recorded by the camera for posterity was when Mrs. Caroline McDonald-Walters-Bronson-Burgess-Chevalier-Gardner-Luigi-White-Hatfield-Willis of Urania, La., added another name to the imposing string. The lady had already had 10 husbands, and Mr. Paschal is the eleventh. The new Mrs. Paschal buried three of her husbands and divorced seven. She is the third wife of her latest spouse.

Sheep Claims Total $22 Here in Week

Two sheep claims totalling $22 were filed by Marion county farmers last week, according to the report of Dale Rhoads, county dog warden, filed with the county commissioners.

John Hecker of Agosta R. F. D. No. 1 filed a claim for $7 for one ewe killed by dogs. Daniel and Ed Seiter of Big Island township filed a claim for $13 for two ewes killed and another for $2 for one ewe injured.

Three dogs were impounded last week, the report shows.

Council Pays for Damages to Auto

The payment of $40 to J. E. Jennings for damages to his automobile which resulted from a collision with a city car, was authorized by city council at its meeting last night. A claim for the damages was filed with council by Jennings who said his car was damaged to that extent when it was struck by a car belonging to the city service department.

Council also transferred $500 from general fund of the garbage collection department to the department for auto repairs. And passed an ordinance transferring Bennett street between Clinton and Vine from the residence zone to the commercial zone.

GARY COOPER AT PALACE

Gary Cooper is a changed man in "City Streets" playing at the Palace Thursday and Friday. No more does he dash around in chaps and sombrero, but he's a city-slicker gangster. Sylvia Sidney plays the role originally given to Clara Bow, but withdrawn after the publicity of her court trial. Paul Lukas, who by the way is scheduled for bigger roles in the future, has a part in the picture, that of "Big Boy Maskal, a beer-running racketeer king.

Wynne Gibson and William (stage) Boyd are two more members of the cast.

"THE SPY" HERE THIS WEEK

"The Spy" is at the Marion Wednesday and Thursday of this week, instead of last week. A mix-up in press material brought out the announcement a week ahead of time.

The story is of the working of the dreaded Tcheka, secret service system of the Soviets and is from an original story by Ernest Pascal. Kay Johnson and Neil Hamilton play the romantic leads with John Halliday in the title role.

"Young Donovan's Kid" at the Palace tonight and Wednesday, packs a wallop. Richard Dix and Jackie Cooper turn in two human performances as "Jim Donovan" and "Midge," gangster and orphan who work out their salvation in the midst of the crime and sordidness of a big city in the days of 1916 when gangsters were still the problem of the local police and not the affair of the government.

Marion Shilling is the girl whose guiding interest helps "Donovan" to be a better man for the sake of little "Midge." "Midge" is "willed" to "Donovan," the toughest guy in the underworld, by his father, killed in a gang war. Their trials and earnest efforts to do the right thing in spite of the convictions of the police and humane societies is a moving story with drama and heartaches. Finally Dix clears himself of any taint of his gang and everything ends with prospects for a bright future in sight. Jackie's acting marks him as a sterling child actor and Dix carries on his acting ability of "Cimarron." An animated comedy, short subject and newsreel are on the bill.—H. H.

Council Renews Notes for Street Repairs

A resolution authorizing the renewal of $130,600.04 worth of notes for sewer and street improvements, was passed by city council at its meeting last night.

The notes were taken over by the Ryan Southerland Co., of Toledo last July for a period of one year. Due to the fact, however, that the cost of several of the improvements have not yet been distributed between the city and the property owner, the notes were carried over until 1932 when bonds will be sold to take up the notes.

VOICES WILL GREET HOOVER

Huge Chorus To Sing Two Verses of "America" as President Approaches.

Five thousand Marion school students will pay homage to President Hoover and add their bit of color to the dedicatory ceremonies at Harding memorial next Tuesday under a plan worked out yesterday afternoon by representatives of the Harding memorial association and local schools.

Students from the fifth to twelfth grades inclusive will sing two verses of "America" near the memorial as the presidential party approaches, according to present plans. The student group will be assembled on a knoll west of route 23 and directly west of the memorial. They will be led by T. R. Evans, music instructor at Harding High school, and the Harding High school band.

To Dress in White

Students will be asked to assemble at designated points in the city at 12 noon Tuesday to march in units to a position west of the memorial. Each child has been asked to dress completely in white, or as nearly so as possible. St. Mary parochial school students will wear their customary school uniform. Each child also will be asked to furnish a small flag.

First strains of "America" will begin as soon as the presidential party, estimated to occupy 15 automobiles, comes in sight. As the last verse ends, the official band of the day will begin the spirited "Hail to the Chief," and will play while President Hoover marches up the 225-foot walk to the small platform in front of the memorial where he will deliver the dedicatory address.

Among persons present at the meeting yesterday afternoon in which plans for the participation of students were worked out, are Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, president of the Parent-Teacher association and child welfare, chairman of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Timothy Fahey, president of St. Mary's P-T A., T. R. Evans, Rev. Father W. J Spickerman and Supt. George A. Bowman.

Build Platform

The platform from which President Hoover will dedicate the memorial will bear the only decorations on the memorial grounds, officials of the association say. Construcion of the platform is already under way with other preparations for the event.

The platform will be approximately five feet high and will seat persons who will participate in the program and a restricted number of distinguished guests and officials of the association. In front of it will be a platform about one foot high on which the official band of the day will be seated. In front of the band will be a long table for a part of the 55 newspapermen expected to "cover" the dedication. Small newspaper tables will flank the small platform on which the band will be located.

Northeast of the speakers' platform the telegraph table, from which news of the event will be flashed to every corner of the country, will be located. Twenty-one pairs of wires for radio, telegraph and telephone outlet have connected the memorial grounds with Bell Telephone Co. toll lines.

Four pairs of radio wires will relay the happenings to nearby cities for broadcast. Two national hookups, the Columbia Broadcasting Co. and the National Broadcasting Co. will turn over their stations to the dedication from 1:45 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. Frederick William Wile, of the Frederick William Wile News Service, will describe the event between features of the program for the Columbia Broadcasting Co.

A delegation of between 60 and 70 persons from Hamilton county will drive to Marion for the dedication next Tuesday.

Plan Decorations for Day of Dedication Here

Berg-Bland Co. Given Contract for Putting Up Bunting and Flags Through Business Section and Out to Harding Home.

A major portion of uptown Marion will be appropriately decorated in the national colors when President Hoover arrives here next Tuesday to dedicate Harding memorial.

Plans for decorating the city are practically complete. Work will begin at 12:01 a. m. Monday and continue until the task is completed. The Berg-Bland Co. has been given contract for the task.

Decorations will overhang and border sections of Center and Main street over which President Hoover and other visiting notables will pass. Decorations will be placed on Church street and Mt. Vernon avenue out to the Harding museum.

Shields bearing the national colors will be contained in large plaques located on street light poles from the Union depot to High street on Center street and from the railroad tracks to the C., D. & M. Electric Co. building on Main street. Five small flags will top each of the plaques and "pull downs," consisting of strips of bunting as wide as the plaques, will be stretched from the bottom of the plaques to the sidewalk level, where the bunting will be tied to the post, forming a V-shaped drop from the bottom of the plaques.

Each of the wires extending from the tops of trolley poles to the trolley itself will be decorated. Sections of bunting four by eight feet will be hung from the span wires on both sides of the trolley in a semi-circular fan shape. These will be flanked by state and national flags which also will hang from the span wires. This form of decoration will be used from the Union depot to High street on Center street and from the railroads to the Memorial on Main street and Mt. Vernon avenue. Where there are no trolley span wires, the decorations will be suspended on ropes.

Merchants as well as those in the residential districts are asked to display sidewalk and lawn flags on the dedication day.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR
Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and—she is on the shelf.
This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restores hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.
Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist—and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Eckerd's Drug Store or your own druggist.—The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.—Adv.

Mt. Gilead State Park Closed as Ohio Legislature Fails To Appropriate Money To Complete Program

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, June 9—Failure of the general assembly to appropriate the $10,000 asked for further construction work and improvements at the state park here has resulted in the closing of the park to the public for an indefinite period, C. W. McFarland, superintendent, announced today.

A representative of the state conservation department was here Saturday and informed McFarland of the action of the conservation council which has closed approximately a dozen parks over the state in the past few weeks to cut down expenses wherever possible.

Another reason for closing the local park at this time is the condition of the road from the entrance to the upper lake. This road which winds around a steep hill and follows the bank of the lower lake is in such bad condition as to make it unsafe for use. As no funds are available to repair the slides and the washed surface of the road it is now closed off entirely. All entrances to the park will be fenced off.

Rumors that the post now held by McFarland would be abolished to further cut expenses have no apparent basis at this time. The conservation council has given out no information. The custodians of the other parks affected by the closing orders have been retained. Several men who have been employed there by McFarland have been laid off.

All the construction and running expenses of the parks from the time they were started until now have been taken care of from hunting and fishing license funds but the conservation council will use no more funds for this purpose here. Only the cost of activities in connection with stocking the lakes with fish will be continued. Other running expense and the cost of any improvements must now come by legislative appropriation from the general taxation funds.

How soon the parks will be opened again cannot be determined for some time. There is a distinct possibility that the public will be barred from the local park for two years if the general assembly does not make some provision in the appropriation now being revised. A recent ruling of the state conservation council forbids any fishing for two years and also prohibits the use of any boats on the lakes. Bathing is prohibited. Several projected improvements have been deferred. Among them is the repair of the lower dam. Water escapes from under the center of the rip-rap constructed just below the dam in spite of a concrete wall sunk approximately 15 feet deep. Thousands of pine trees planted on the park grounds need further care but this work has also been abandoned.

SCHOOL BOARD ISSUES BONDS

Funds Will Be Used in School Improvement Program; Kish Named Coach.

BUCYRUS, June 9—The Bucyrus school board during a special session Monday night voted to issue $73,000 in bonds to cover the entire cost of the building improvement program being carried out in the elementary schools this summer.

Contractors at last night's meeting were paid $11,000 for work already completed at the various buildings, which was paid through the sale of notes. By delaying the sale of bonds until this time the board realized a savings of over $1,500 in interest.

Alex Kish, graduate of Bucyrus high school in 1927 and a three-letter man at Wittenberg college was employed by the board as physical education instructor, filling the vacancy made by the resignation of Jay Winters who left to accept a similar position in Findlay.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

DURING the 1930 season of recreation baseball in the No. 2 Sunday school loop the St. Paul Lutheran Sunday school chalked up two victories in 14 games and were considered rather fortunate in doing this well. At the start of this season St. Paul was figured to do just about the same thing as in 1930, win a game or two when some team hit a slump and that was about all.

With the present season less than one-half completed the alleged "experts" have already been forced to change their opinion. In five games to date St. Paul has won three and lost two both of the defeats coming by close scores and both being the result of late inning rallies on the part of the opposition. Yesterday the Lutheran team startled league followers by pushing the Christian No. 1 entry farther down the standings scale of the league by taking a 3-2 battle.

Both Hurlers Good

Don Lindsey hurled some good ball for St. Paul although probably no better than did Roscoe Rank of the Christians. Lindsey was accorded some brilliant support and got one or two breaks that aided him considerably. Three infield errors on the part of the Christian inner defense did a lot to put Rank on the losing end of the hurlers' duel.

The Central Christian Seniors, pace setters of the No. 2 league at the moment, continued their dizzy pace by taking the measure of the tail-end Wesley M. E. team 6-3. Gilmore started the game on the mound for the Christians and did a creditable job of it until the fifth inning when Wesley got two men on the sacks with no one down and Art Amick was called in to the rescue. Amick checked the Wesley uprising before it assumed dangerous proportions and finished the game for the winners. Lashley clouted one for the circuit off Amick in the seventh frame with no one on.

Strikeouts in Order

Strikeouts were the order of the day as the First Presbyterian nine put the skids under Forest Lawn by a 4-2 count to keep the former team pressing the Christian Seniors for the leadership. Don Shoemaker, Presbyterian mound artist and "Mutt" Kellogg, Forest Lawn slabman, whiffed eight batters each during the seven innings.

The Presbyterians collected all of their four tallies in a one inning scoring spree. Bunching three safe bingles with a walk and an error in the fifth inning the Presbies chased four markers across the plate before the third man was retired. Forest Lawn was able to nick Shoemaker for no more than a single bit in any one frame. Freddie Vestal drove in one of the lowers scores by clouting a triple with Peadon on base. It was the only extra base hit gotten off Shoemaker's deliveries.

One Bad Inning

"Dutch" Zuspan hurled seven innings of softball for the United Brethren team yesterday against First Reformed. Six of the innings he pitched good ball and one he didn't. The result is that First Reformed won the game 4-2, scoring three of their quartet of tallies in the one bad inning, the third. One more run was added in the fifth but it wasn't needed.

Dale Schwaderer, rookie hurler of First Reformed stayed on the mound the complete seven innings for Reformed but he also had one bad inning. Schwaderer however weathered the storm slightly better than Zuspan, allowing only two runs. Aside from these two flurries of scoring neither team threatened very seriously at any time of the game.

10 AMATEUR GOLFERS WIN PLACES IN LINEUP OF NATIONAL OPEN

Principal Hopes of Simon Pures Are Philip Perkins and George Voigt.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9—Ten amateurs will be in the field seeking the national open golf championship, starting at the Inverness club, Toledo, O., July 2.

The principal hopes among the simon-pures will be George Voigt and T. Philip Perkins of New York, the latter a former British amateur champion. The other amateurs who have gained a place in the field are George Dawson and Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, Lester Bolstad of St. Paul, Tom Cooley, of Tucson, Ariz., Joe Pazzullo of Wanumetonomy, R. I., Chester O'Brien and Bryan Winter of St. Louis and Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh.

Originally 53 professionals given exemption from qualifying play, automatically moved into the Inverness starting field without swinging a club. Yesterday the other 97 places were filled with nation-wide 36-hole qualifying rounds in 20 districts. The exempt list included all those who finished in the first 30 and ties at Interlachen last year and a host of foreign players, including the 10 members of the British Ryder cup team.

Two veterans, Al Espinosa of Chicago and Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn, carried off individual honors in yesterday's qualifying round. Espinosa compiled the lowest 36-hole total in the country, 135 to lead the Chicago district. Cox broke the south course record at the Westchester Club at Rye, N. Y., with a 64 in his first round and then added a 74 in the second round to lead the New York district by a wide margin. Espinosa's 135 was made up of one round of 70 and another of 65.

The former open champions, Willie MacFarlane and Cyril Walker, failed to qualify at Westchester and so did the veteran Mike Brady, runner-up for the title in 1911 and 1919.

FAST THROWS

Outfielders Nab Runners at Plate Twice in Cub-Giant Game.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9—It isn't often that outfielders nail base runners at the plate after taking long flies, but spectators at yesterday's Cub-Giant game saw it done twice in one inning.

Kiki Cuyler accomplished it in the first inning, grabbing Freddie Lindstrom's fly to deep right and making a perfect throw to nail Hughie Critz at the plate.

Lindstorm duplicated it in the last half of the inning, and at the expense of the fleet Cuyler. Cuyler was on third and tried to score when Stephenson drove a long one to the Giant right fielder, but Lindstorm's throw easily beat him to the plate.

As an extra inducement to fair fans, the Oklahoma City Western league club has two ladies' days a week and on other days charges them only 25 cents.

LEFTY GROVE CHALKS UP TENTH VICTORY BY SUBDUING TIGERS

Washington on Rampage, Walloping Chisox 18-4 in Hitting Contest.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Charles Rufus Ruffing of the Yankees, saw enough of the Cleveland Indians in five minutes yesterday to last him the rest of his natural life. If the red head never sees Roger Peckinpaugh's wreckers again it doubtless will suit him fine.

AVERILL

They disappointed Mr. Ruffling sorely. For eight innings they were so docile he was almost ashamed to take the money. During that interval they obtained just one single. The Yanks, meantime, had grouped two of their three base hits off Wes Ferrell to score a run.

Not Bad! Not Bad!

The Indians jumped the reservation in the ninth. Dick Porter started it with a triple, whereupon Johnny Hodapp delivered a single that brought him in. Earl Averill belted a homer into the right bleachers, and before the uprising subsided Morgan had drawn a walk and loped in on Myatt's triple. That was how it ended, 4 to 1.

The triumph gave the Tribe 12 out of its last 14 and five out of seven for its present eastern invasion.

Lefty Grove and Jimmy Fox divided honors as the Athletics mauled the Detroit Tigers again, 7 to 3. Grove allowing seven hits, four of them by Mark Koenig, became the first pitcher in either league to register 10 victories this year.

Foxx led the champions' assault on Earl Whitehill with a brace of homers and a single.

Browns Leave Cellar

Walt Stewart southpawed the Boston Red Sox into submission, 4 to 0, pulling the Browns out of the cellar. It was Stewart's seventh victory.

An eight-run outburst in the second inning featured Washington's 18 to 4 win over the Chicago White Sox. For the eighth straight game the Senators used only one pitcher, Bob Burke limiting the Sox to eight hits, one of them a homer by Kerr.

The New York Giants won their second victory out of seven starts in the west when Crafty Clarence Mitchell set the Cubs down 6 to 1.

Rain prevented the only other tilt scheduled in the national, that between the Phillies and Pirates at Pittsburgh.

Putting Accuracy Gives Piqua Man Post in Open

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., June 9—The unerring accuracy of his putter has won H. C. Jordan, of Piqua, Ohio, the honor of leading the field of qualifiers from this region to the National open golf championship at Toledo, beginning July 2.

Jordan went around the 36-hole medal play route at the Maketewah Country club yesterday with a fine 145, three under par, and five below the second man, Massie Miller of Indianapolis, who hung up a 150 for the 6,300-yard course.

Nothing Barred so Matmen Get Mauled Plenty

BY KARL McELROY

A Pair of Roman gladiators faced each other in the ring last night and a battered and bruised Clyde Robinson of St. Louis emerged victorious. Just as battered if not a little more bruised, "Father" Lumpkin, Georgia Tech football star, was beaten in what can be honestly called the roughest wrestling match of the season.

With only the strangle hold barred, the two men started a battle which kept the crowd in a constant uproar. The boys slugged, pulled hair, kicked and bit until the fans were in a frenzy.

The non-chalant Robinson took the first and third falls while Lumpkin managed to win the second. Lumpkin appeared afraid to arouse Robinson's anger and passed up numerous opportunities to "lay him out cold," as the Eskimo says.

First in 30 Minutes

Thirty minutes of lightning like action was packed into the first fall. First it was Robinson and then Lumpkin who had the edge. Robinson opened up with a few pokes to the jaw which had Lumpkin practically out and then he pinned him with an arm scissors.

Lumpkin came back strong to take the second fall in 13 minutes. After battering Robinson around the ring he resorted to the mid-air body scissors. Robinson fought off the hold for seven minutes before taking the count.

Robinson's ruggedness carried him to victory in the third fall. Lumpkin did not have the strength to make his scissors effective. Robinson countered a mid-aid body scissors with a back slam to win the fall and match in nine minutes.

Jesson Pins Lever

Bob Jesson walked to an easy victory over Dick Lever of Nashville. The former Iowa football star won the match in straight falls, the first coming after a couple of flying tackles had knocked the wind out of Lever. A body slam ended the fall in 17 minutes. Jesson won the second in 12 minutes with an arm stretch.

Ray Hamilton used his body scissors effectively to defeat Red Campbell of Shelby in seven and a half minutes in the preliminary.

SHORT SHIP MEETING STARTS TODAY WITH RECORD ENTRY FIELD

Speed Is Password as Horses Face Barrier at Fairground Oval.

It will be speed and more speed at the fairground racing oval starting today at 2:30 p. m. and ending Friday afternoon. The first local meeting of the Ohio Short Ship Racing association is due to get under way at the Marion track at this time and continue for four days. A field of approximately 185 horses are quartered at the fairground stables awaiting competition in the various races.

Three races are on the card for today. The first race, an 18 class pace, will have a field of 11 starters. The second, a 24 class trot, will have 10 starters, and the third event, an 11 class pace, will have seven at the barrier at race time.

Officials of the local racing association are predicting one of the best meetings ever held in Marion. Some of the best horses and drivers of the country are on hand and some thrilling races are in prospect. Fifty-eight hundred dollars are to be given in purses at the meeting. Ladies were scheduled to be admitted free to the events of today.

SAINTS OPEN SERIES AGAINST LOUISVILLE

League Leaders Face Difficult Task of Beating Kentucky Club.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9—Albert Lefield and his St. Paul club today faced the opening of what promised to be an extremely trying five-game series with Louisville.

The Saints took the league leadership to Louisville with them, but it amounted to only one and one-half games over the Colonels.

The Saints yesterday divided a double header with Milwaukee to even up the four game series. Clyde Manion's home run with two on in the seventh was the big item in a 6 to 1 victory for the Brewers.

St. Paul jumped onto Americo Polli, in the second contest and finished with a 7 to 4 decision.

Louisville lost a chance to take up ground on the Saints when old Alex Ferguson held the Colonels to six hits, while Toledo pounded the ball hard enough for a 6 to 2 decision.

A pair of home runs by Earl Smith accounted for a 5 to 3 Columbus victory over Indianapolis. The veteran delivered his circuit swats with none on, but they were enough to put the Red Birds in front.

The Kansas City-Minneapolis game was played as part of Sunday's doubleheader.

YOUNGSTOWNER IN LEAD

By International News Service

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 9—Paced by a card of 152 strokes, turned in by Albert Alcroft, Youngstown Country club, and twice Ohio golf champion, eight survivors of the qualifying round in the National open golf championship district qualifying play were picked here today to carry northern Ohio's hopes into the National play over the Inverness course at Toledo, July 2, 3, and 4.

WINS TENTH

LEFTY GROVE

It has been some time since any pitcher in the major leagues turned in 30 victories in a single season but if Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove continue all season at the pace he is setting now there will be a new name added to the list this year. Grove yesterday hurled his tenth win of the current season, setting down the Detroit Tigers 7-3. With the season only about one-quarter over Grove has turned in 10 victories against one defeat. That's pitching baseball—as any batter who has opposed Grove readily admits. Last year Lefty won 28 games.

Keady Mentioned as New Reserve Grid Coach

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 9—J. T. "Tom" Keady, one time Dartmouth star and now coach of the Quantico Marines, today was mentioned as the most likely candidate to become head football coach at Western Reserve university.

It was learned that Keady was the choice of several influential members of the athletic committee. Previously it had been understood Reserve wanted Andy Kerr, Colgate's famous mentor, after he finished his present contract this year, but Kerr failed to send any notice as requested last week.

Gordon Locke resigned yesterday as Reserve director of athletics, to assist Burt Ingwerson at Iowa.

Dear Sir:
I have been a sufferer from ulceration and irritation of the stomach and bowels for 20 years. I have tried all remedies that I have heard about, with slight improvement.
Sometime ago, my attention was called to Yellow Root & Clay which I have consistently used. I have taken five bottles and can say that I feel that I am cured of the dreadful malady that afflicted me.
I live at 394 Oliney av., Marion, and am employed as a toolmaker at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. I will gladly verify this testimonial upon request.
(Signed) H. B. Jones.
This is one of many encouraging reports received from those to whom we have sold Yellow Root & Clay. If you are a sufferer from Ulcers irritation or colitis, try this really wonderful remedy.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Fairly large supplies of practically all kinds of seasonable fruits and vegetables were on display today at prices unchanged from yesterday. The peak of the season having been passed, pineapples are less plentiful although dealers are still offering specials for canning. The prices range from $1.50 to $2.90 a dozen. In less than dozen lots, the fruit is selling at fro m13 to 20 cents.

Dealers are expecting home grown strawberries the latter part of this week, the continued cool weather, however, may delay their appearance until next week. Kentucky and Tennessee berries continue to supply the demand at from 20 to 25 cents a quart. Cantaloupe at two for 25 cents are common on the market and dealers report light sales due to the cool weather.

Green vegetables are plentiful and dealers report sales about normal. Spinach is selling at two pounds for 25 cents new peas at from 15 to 18 cent and green beans at the same price.

GRAIN PRICES TEND LOWER

Drouth Relief in Canada Forces Values Downward in Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9- Lower prices for grains resulted early today from prospects of general drouth relief in Canada. There were also reports that harvesting of winter wheat had begun in Missouri. Opening 1-4@3-4 cents down, wheat afterward sold near to the initial limit. Corn started unchanged to 5-8 off and subsequently showed but little alteration.

Lower barometer readings presaging likelihood of widespread moisture throughout the Canadian region received prompt attention from wheat traders and the effect was emphasized by scattered rains in Alberta and showers in Saskatchewan. Simultaneously St. Louis reported cutting of wheat had commenced in southeastern Missouri and that the harvest would be in full swing by the end of this week. On the other hand stock market rallies tended to restrain wheat sellers, and to check price downturns.

Urgent need of rain for the domestic spring wheat crop, as well as for that of Canada was reported. A Chicago expert telegraphing from Bowbells, N. D., said that from Bismarck onward grain prospects were poor and that wheat would average only half a stand over miles of territory. Another Chicago observer wired from Moosejaw, Canada, that a great many fields were dependent on heavy rains this week in order to retain even 50 per cent stand. He added that dust storms have been severe whipping many plants out of the soil, crippling more and destroying others. Corn and oats were relatively firm, with Chicago corn receipts small, 52 cars.

Provisions went lower with hog values but tallied.

STOVES NEEDED ON TRIP TO MOON

By ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

By The Associated Press

URBANA, Ill.- Studying the face of the moon as it appeared at its full phase recently, we recall reading of proposed trips to its surface, in vehicles propelled by rocket motors, or in some other way.

At the comfortable speed of a hundred miles an hour, the trip would require only three months. And a radio message of the safe arrival could be transmitted to stations on the earth in one and one-third seconds. So far the trip seems attractive.

* * *

ASTRONOMERS at the Mount Wilson observatory have recently completed measurements of temperatures at the moon's surface. They find at the center of the disk of the full moon a temperature of 214 degrees, the rocks just there are slightly hotter than the ordinary boiling point of water.

Toward the edge of the moon's disk it becomes cooler, and finally much colder. Near the edge, which at the full moon is the sunrise or sunset line, the thermometer reads 60 degrees below zero. And on the other side, where it is night, the temperature is as low as 280 degrees below zero.

From day to night on the moon the temperature may drop from the boiling point of water to the point at which air with us becomes liquid. But on the moon there is neither water to boil nor air to liquefy.

* * *

HAVING in mind the remarkable achievement of science one would scarcely venture to predict that a successful crossing to the moon can never be accomplished. Engineering difficulties may well be overcome, and means may be found for providing a supply of air as well as food and water. Chance encounters with swiftly moving meteors would have to be reckoned as one of the hazards of a dangerous trip.

For the astronomer a station on the moon's surface would offer conditions for observing the heavens far superior to the most favorable site on the earth. The lunar sky is always cloudless and the view is so clear and steady that very high magnifying powers could be employed successfully. Then, too the stars could be seen in the daytime fully as well as at night. The moon is the ideal location for a great telescope.

A vast range of temperature is shown by the moon's full face. At the bright spot in the lower center the temperature is 214 degrees Fahrenheit. At the lower edge, in the dark, the temperature is 60 below.

Senator Is Unknowing Extra in Movie Film

HONOLULU, T. H. The lot of a "movie extra" fell to U. S. Senator A. H. Vandenberg, of Michigan while sitting in a hotel lobby here.

During the filming of a picture a few scenes were being made in a local hotel. The senator talking with a friend, was included in one of the scenes. When he noticed the incident he started to leave but was halted by the director. "Wait a minute Senator," from the director. "You're in my picture now, and will have to stay while I shoot my other angles." The senator obligingly complied.

NEW DROUTH RECORD

OAKLAND, Calif. The 1930-31 season has been the driest in Oakdale since 1849 it was revealed today by Edward Zimmerman, manager of a mining company here, who has records of rainfall for each year since that time. The nearest approach to the present lack of rain was recorded in 1870-71 when but 25 inches fell during the similar period. Zimmerman's records reveal but 43 inches having fallen this season. Below normal snow falls in the high Sierras have added to the danger of a water shortage later in the year and Oakdale water district officials declared that all regulations for the conservation of water must be strictly enforced.

CAN'T CARRY HORSES

AKRON, O. Officials of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation faced a perplexing problem here when M. A. Monie of Fort Humphreys, Va. asked for an estimate the cost of transporting a horse from Santa Barbara, Cal. to Alexandria, Va. After some discussion, Monie was told the blimps were not equipped to ship horses.

MOST bank presidents play golf but Zanesville boasts of one who himself admits he never had a stick in his hand.

Now is this bank president Frank [illegible] Hambleton hired among those boys who made good outside their home environment.

Fact is, Frank Hambleton became interested in politics and has always maintained a constant and unflagging interest in the fortunes of the Republican party but he has never sought public office. He was closely associated in a personal friendship with the late President Harding but it is accepted as a fact among the politically wise that Hambleton declined the offer during the Harding administration to go as ambassador to the court of St. James.

Pandleton has been recognized for years as the best lawyer in Stark in Ohio. He joined the Lodge at 21 and since then has been the recipient of many state and national honors the Lodge can bestow.

His father was a potter and to this craft he learned the potters trade. He became familiar with the old time potters wheel and was a working potter at 60 years ago when he and two brothers started a pottery of their own. It has grown to be one of the most widely known companies in the industry.

The success brought personal recognition from his associates and he seldom in financial matters brought him the presidency of one of Zanesville's largest banks. But, of all the honors heaped upon him he prizes most the action of his school friends and associates in electing him president of the Reese School association at Hopedale where his pottery was located. He has held the position for 30 years and no matter where he is he returns each year for the annual reunion of the organization.

Investigation Reveals Officers Usually Right

By International News Service

HARTFORD, Conn. Connecticut has been investigating complaints that police of other states discriminate against Connecticut motorists.

To experimentally confirmed to see whether such discrimination exists none has been found, says Frederick R. Rogers, state commissioner of motor vehicles.

Many years of experience and evidence brought forward by many friends convinces me the policeman is justified in ninety nine per cent of all cases, the commissioner said and added.

The police especially motorcycle officers are consistently living suffering and kind. A tour of five states recently confirmed this the courtesy of all officers being a matter of course and [illegible]

Barnes Tells Graduates Business Is Improving

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 9—Belief that the forces of restless human nature have laid the foundations for business recovery was expressed by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the United States chamber of commerce, in delivering the commencement address at Ohio State university yesterday.

Out of the current depression, Barnes said, will come new advancements, new fortunes and new leadership before which the slump will dwindle as have others that have preceded it. Asserting that it is time for steadfastness in conviction and in principle and for enterprise putting into play every proven device to shorten this depression, the speaker said there was a trend for business improvement but added that only the future would determine how fast it will grow or gather.
